SURGERY RECEIVES CIVIC DONATION

At a luncheon on 20 June at the Faculty Club, Tom Williams, Chairman of the Department of Surgery, was presented with a cheque for $35,000 to support the continuing Surgical Research Program. The cheque was presented by Bill Mack, Acting Chairman of the Edmonton Civic Employees' Charitable Assistance Fund.

The Edmonton Civic Employee's Charitable Assistance Fund has directly financed theoretical and practical advances in kidney preservation and transplantation, the physiology of the stomach and treatment of gastric and duodenal ulcers, gall bladder disease and the formation of gall stones, pancreas transplantation, wound healing, and open heart surgery. Over the years, some one hundred researchers have been supported, and no less than twenty-six of those are currently on staff in the University's Department of Surgery.

D.F. Cameron, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, and Dr. Williams expressed the gratitude of the Faculty of Medicine and the Department of Surgery respectively. H.E. Gunning expressed his appreciation on behalf of the University, and he said that the Edmonton Civic Employees should be regarded as a model of how organizations can contribute to the efforts of the University and thus to the community as a whole.

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR THE LEARNING DISABLED

Approximately twenty children with learning difficulties will attend summer school at this University. Most of the children are from outlying communities such as Athabasca, Fort McMurray, Edson, Smoky Lake, and High Prairie.

Before the school opens, a teacher will provide individual pre-assessment and develop and implement a remedial program for the child to follow until the school concludes. The program, aimed at children from nine to twelve years of age, will focus on development of academic skills and, if required, social development skills. A number of teaching facilities and methods, including computer-assisted instruction, will be employed.

Forrest Bard

The program is free of charge to the parents and is under the co-direction of Robert Mulcahy, Director of the Learning and Development Clinic in the Faculty of Education, and Harvy Zingle, Coordinator of Clinical Services.

Upon completion of the program, a detailed report on each child will be sent to his or her school and the child's educational development will be studied for one year.

NATIONAL ODORI CONCERT

Japanese citizens of this country will be celebrating their centennial this year through the Odori Project. One of its main objectives is to create public awareness of the Japanese cultural contribution to the performing arts—the Odori.

The Odori is a dance, symbolic of Japanese culture. Through it, expression is given to quality and appreciation of beauty, rhythm, subtlety, and delicacy. To master the interpretive part creatively, the Sansei dancers must become thoroughly acquainted with the meaning behind symbolic expression. However, since the second- and third-generation Japanese (the Nisei and Sansei) now perform the Odori, something of a new identity emerges through a Japanese-Canadian expression.

The National Odori Concert will perform in Edmonton on 5 and 6 August. The concert will follow the shakuhachi introduction with the Cherry Blossom Dance and then progress through the four seasonal changes reflected by dance movement, music, and sets. The latter half of the program will be light and colorful, blending aspects of the Canadian and Japanese cultures.

Performances will be at the Citadel Theatre. Regular admission is $5 and $3 for senior citizens. Tickets are available at the Citadel Box Office, telephone 425-1820.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

The following article has been received from R.J. Burns, Director of the Office of Energy Management.

The University of Alberta Design Guidelines Committee has reviewed temperature requirements of domestic hot water in University buildings and has approved new distribution temperatures of 40°C. The decision to distribute domestic hot water at 40°C is based partly on published data from the Public Building Service Branch of the General Services Administration for US Government Buildings. This temperature meets hand washing comfort requirements without blending of hot and cold water.

Under the previous design and operating procedures, domestic hot water systems operated continuously at temperatures between 60°C and 82°C. Under the new plan, recirculation and heating systems will be turned off during unoccupied hours, and timer controls will be installed to reduce the operating hours of recirculation pumps and heat exchangers by approximately 40 percent.

By operating the domestic hot water systems under this program, annual energy savings in Education North alone will be in the order of 6,570 kilowatt-hours of power reduction and 285,000 pounds steam reduction, which will net $450 annually. Implementation of this program in the thirty-five largest buildings on campus will net an operating cost saving to the University of between $15,000 and $18,000 annually.

The turning down of water temperatures in buildings will be carried out by the Physical Plant Maintenance Division throughout the coming year. Any enquiries should be directed to Building

Superintendents. The Office of Energy Management will investigate any corrective action necessary to meet localized needs for temperatures above 40°C.

PEOPLE

■ Pierre A.R. Monod, Associate Professor of Romance Languages, conducted a French Experimental Immersion Program in June, integrated to the sharing of the life of a Canadian French-speaking community (Jonquière, Québec). This program, which he created four years ago, provides a field of experimentation in applied linguistics and enables students from the three universities in Alberta to become better acquainted with the language, culture, and customs of Quebec. In May, Professor Monod was reappointed Editor of the Canadian Journal of Research in Semiotics at the annual meeting of the Canadian Semiotic Research Association in Fredericton.

■ Joseph R. Royce, Director of the Center for Advanced Study in Theoretical Psychology, presented a paper entitled "The relationship between factors and psychological processes" at a NATO Advanced Study Institute held in Banff from 20 to 30 June. This Institute brought together a number of international scholars to examine the interdisciplinary topic Structural Process Theories of Complex Human Behavior. Kellog V. Wilson, Faculty Associate of the Center, participated as a discussant at the Institute.

■ Margot B. McBurney, Head of Acquisitions for the Library, has been named Chief Librarian at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, for a five-year term.

■ Al Ryan, Professor of English, has been honored recently by the Canadian Association of Colleges and Universities Student Services at its conference in Newfoundland. Dr. Ryan was awarded an honorary life-time membership in the CACUSS in recognition of his generous contribution to the area of student services throughout Canada.

■ Bryce Schurr, Assistant Professor (Research Associate) of Speech Pathology and Audiology, presented a paper entitled "Retroactive interference in the short-term retention of pitch" at the Thirty-eighth Annual Meeting of the Canadian Psychological Association held in Vancouver.

■ The Office of the Dean of the Faculty of Education has been reorganized, and the following two-thirds-time appointments are effective 1 July 1977 to 30 June 1979. R.S. Patterson, Professor of Educational Foundations, has been reappointed Associate Dean (Planning and Development) and will be responsible for leadership and coordination in the revision of the BEd degree program and supervision of the operation of the Faculty service units. R.L. Ware, Professor of Education, has been appointed Associate Dean (Student Services) and will be responsible for development and administration of policies and regulations affecting undergraduate students. M.P. Browne, Associate Professor of Elementary Education, has been named Assistant Dean (Admissions) and will coordinate selection and admissions, supervising the development and dissemination of information to prospective and continuing students in Education. R.K. Jackson, Associate Professor of Elementary Education, has been appointed Assistant Dean (Practicum) and will be responsible for the refinement, implementation, and administration of education practicum activities. E.W. Ratsoy, Professor of Educational Administration, has been named Assistant Dean (Program Evaluation) and will organize, install, and maintain a system for the continuing evaluation of courses and programs.

DISPOSAL OF CHEMICAL WASTE

Recently, several fires have occurred in garbage collection vehicles after waste pick-up from University buildings. In one instance, substantial damage occurred causing some concern about disposal of chemical waste through the general University waste removal system. The potential fire hazard caused by this practice is a serious threat

Assistance is needed to bring this matter to the attention of staff in areas where chemical waste and solvents are generated. Arrangements for the disposal of chemical waste at the newly completed University Waste Management Facility at Ellerslie can be made by calling the Radiation Control Office at 432-5655.

PLANT SCIENCE FIELD DAY

The Department of Plant Science is sponsoring a field day on 20 July. The program will include lectures including "Herbicide fertilizer interactions in wild oat control" by W.H. Vanden Born, "Potential for herbicides in reforestation" by W.G. Corns, and "The degrading fungus—Sclerotinia" by N. Colotelo. During the afternoon there will be plot tours at Parkland Farm and Ellerslie Farm. In case of rain, indoor presentations are planned at Parkland. For further information, telephone 432-3239.

INTERRUPTION OF SPECIAL COLLECTIONS SERVICES

Through July and August, ceiling alterations in the Special Collections' stacks area will necessitate the removal of the entire collection to another location. The temporary location, 028 Cameron Library, will not house all of the collections. Therefore, some infrequently used materials will have to be placed in storage.

During August, while the collection is being moved, most of the items will be unavailable. These items include the closed stacks, special collections, pamphlets, manuscript collections, and the archival copy of all University theses and dissertations. During July, most of the collection will be available, particularly heavily used documents in the areas of European history, Canadian history, literature, and theses and dissertations.

Any faculty members or students planning research in Special Collections between July and September should contact John Charles, Special Collections Librarian, as soon as possible to ensure that specific materials can be made available when needed.

ACADEMIC STAFF SALARIES, 1977-78

Pending the decision of the arbitrator concerning the 1977-78 academic salary scales, effective 1 July the salaries of full-time academic staff (faculty, librarians, administrative professional officers, and faculty service officers) will be increased by an interim adjustment of the lesser of 6.25 percent or $2,400 per annum. July salary cheques will reflect this adjustment as well as any merit increments which may have been awarded by the various salaries and promotions
